

Luxuria / Lust

Lust instills an intense craving for satisfaction. Distinct from actual needs, it propels a potent hunger that can take any shape or form. Whether it is Lust for sex, power, objects, or food; Luxuria demands fulfillment.

Yet, Lust is mostly regarded a sin, not a virtue. Why is this? After all, without Lust life would not exist or would not be worth living.

But where do you draw the line? On which side do you place Luxuria: Sin or Virtue?

Colour and shape possess a deep power of attraction; they have a direct influence on our brain and inflict Lust. The dome, as an ancient abstract shape, appeals to our basic need for caressing and tenderness, a natural response.

In my work, these colours and shapes aim to lure and seduce the beholder. They draw one's attention which leads to a confrontation with the content that will be different for everyone.

Luxuria/Lust can be found in sweet lips and blue skies, green fields and warm yellow sunshine. In whatever gives a glow of happiness - the pure whiteness of snow or a little lamb or the absent of sorrow - in quiet joy or outrageous ecstasy.

Luxuria can be anything and everywhere.

ASK YOURSELF:

How often did you meet Luxuria today?

Luxuria 1 blue

Luxuria 2 yellow

Luxuria 3 pink

Luxuria 4 green

Luxuria White on White

Luxuria Do not Touch

Luxuria Pill white

Luxuria Pill oxblood red

Luxuria "ASK YOURSELF"

Luxuria 99 - wallhanging-tapestry

September 2018 - Catharina van de Ven